About

"Here, the candle has been burning since 1853"

The Spaas mission perfectly encapsulates the company's ambition: 'Light up your life'. By making our baseline concrete, we want to add value for customers and consumers. In the fulfilment of our mission, we rely on five core values:

Inspire

There are so many beautiful candle moments in our lives. Spaas wants to inspire you so that your moments are fully utilized.

Surprise

Spaas wants to surprise both in products as in communication and in dealings with each other.

Connect

Spaas wants to be close to its employees, customers and consumers.

Authentic

By offering honest and valuable solutions, Spaas wants to be authentic, with respect for our tradition.

Quality

Spaas ensures quality products, so that our products safely do what they should do.

Since its creation as a small, local candle factory back in 1853 in the town of Hamont in Limburg, Spaas has become one of the most important European players in the candles market. Over the past 165 years, we have grown steadily. With more than 250 employees, Spaas is not only market leader in Belgium, but also a respected international supplier with a strong home base in Europe.

Quality

Recognize the quality of our candles

Spaas has an excellent reputation when it comes to the quality of our candles. We find it important to make products that do what they are promised to do with safety.

All Spaas' candles feature icons that indicate how the candle should burn. Often, we receive complaints because people do not respect the icons. Our advice is to read carefully the icons on the labels / packaging.

Spaas' candles hold the internationally recognised BRC quality certificate. This certificate stands for high-quality and safe products that meet strict quality standards. To what do we owe this? We use only the best materials and a state-of-the-art production process to manufacture perfectly finished candles. If you choose the certified candles of Spaas, you get only the best consistent and reliable quality.

All our products are compared and tested in our labs. We ensure that the soot emissions, the flame size and burn-time of our candles fulfil international and European standards. As far as the scents are concerned, the declarations are featured on the packaging, where necessary. Our ISO 9001 certificate proves our achieved standards of our quality management system.
